

John Rennie Short - Public Outreach

My academic research and publications are also a foundation for general public articles, op-eds, radio, video and print interviews and citations in mass media, in addition to citations in the academic works of other scholars. Some of my papers are fully republished in the public press and a range of popular outlets.

I provide these works as public outreach to organizations and communities that might not otherwise have access to the public policy issues and solutions in my academic publications. Here is a partial list of the continuously growing collection.
